

BAM Class

Behavioral Animal
Motivators
March 31, 2021

Course Topics Include

Animal Motivators and Stressors

Understanding Livestock
Behavior

Emergency Haltering

Large Animal Handling

Downed Animal Rescue

Front / Rear Assist

Hosted by: HALTER Project
Atwood Ranch

12099 Sonoma Highway
Glen Ellen, CA 95442

Fee

$150.00 per person

HALTER Project offers scholarships to qualified applicants, including: Firefighters, Volunteer SAR, Mounted Officers, Veterinarians and RVTs, and volunteers with FEMA IS-100, 200 & 700 certificates.

- To request a Scholarship:
1. Register for the class
 2. Complete the Scholarship Request Form at halterproject.org/trainings-and-scholarships

Your confirmation for this request will come from rescue@halterfund.org. Please add this email to your contacts.

Handling livestock during stressful situations can be extremely difficult for responders as well as animals. Think in terms of safety first, safety for you, the animal and anyone else in the area. This training prepares you to immediately apply your knowledge to the field, with hands-on training from experienced instructors focused on the animal response using the latest handling techniques. Livestock should always be approached in a calm, quiet way and handled appropriately. Livestock have a great ability to sense fear, therefore handlers should be confident in their actions and always be aware of their ability. This class will build confidence in handlers and provide the necessary skills to handle livestock.

In addition, you will learn front / rear assist and perform a downed animal rescue exercise.

For more information call:

Garret Leonard 303-489-5945

Scan the QR Code or visit

www.asartraining.com

